PARISHES

Deaneries

Parishes are organized in regional areas called deaneries. The bishop appoints a dean from the pastors of the parishes in a deanery. The dean's primary role is to provide support to the faithful and clergy of his deanery, and to be a liaison between the deanery and the bishop. Some consultative bodies, such as the Presbyteral Council and the Diocesan Pastoral Council, are primarily composed of representatives from the eight deaneries.
